World Bank Glossary

Foreword

This edition of the World Bank Glossary has been revised and expanded by the Terminology Unit of the Bank's Translation, Interpretation and Conference Services Division, in close collaboration with the English and Spanish Translation Sections.

The Glossary is intended to assist the Bank's translators and interpreters, other Bank staff using Spanish in their work, and free-lance translators and interpreters employed by the Bank. For this reason, the Glossary contains not only financial and economic terminology and terms relating to the Bank's procedures and practices, but also terms that frequently occur in Bank documents, and others for which the Bank has a preferred equivalent. Although many of the terms, relating to such fields as agriculture, education, environment, housing, law, technology and transportation, could be found in other sources, they have been assembled here for ease of reference.

Comments and suggestions from users will be most welcome and should be addressed to:

Glosario del Banco Mundial

Prefacio

Esta edición del Glosario del Banco Mundial ha sido revisada y ampliada por la Unidad de Terminología de la División de Servicios de Traducción, Interpretación y Conferencias del Banco, en estrecha colaboración con las Secciones de Traducciones al Español y al Inglés.

El Glosario tiene por objeto servir de ayuda a los traductores e intérpretes del Banco, a otros funcionarios que utilizan el idioma español en su trabajo, y a los traductores e intérpretes independientes que el Banco contrata. Por esta razón, el Glosario contiene no sólo términos financieros y económicos y expresiones relacionadas con los procedimientos y prácticas del Banco, sino también algunos vocablos que suelen emplearse en sus documentos, así como otros para los cuales se prefiere una determinada traducción. Aunque muchos términos —propios de esferas como agricultura, educación, medio ambiente, vivienda, derecho, tecnología y transportes— pueden encontrarse en otras fuentes, se han incluido aquí para facilitar la consulta.

Se agradece a los usuarios que envíen sus comentarios y sugerencias a:

currency translation

traducción de monedas

Recording in accounts of assets (or liabilities) in one currency when they are actually in another. No actual exchange of funds takes place. The World Bank and IFC, for example, translate all their assets and liabilities into U.S. dollar amounts, regardless of the actual currency in which they are denominated.

unidad monetaria

current account deficit

déficit en cuenta corriente

current account pattern

configuración de las cuentas corrientes current amount see current insured amount current assets

activo corriente; activo disponible y realizable a corto plazo

Unrestricted cash or other asset held for conversion within a relatively short period into cash or other readily convertible asset or currently useful goods or services.

current balance of payments

balanza en cuenta corriente

current blend [IFC]

índice combinado de desempeño de la cartera

A rate used by IFC to assist in determining the performance of its loan portfolio, it is based on actual and projected debt-to-equity ratios.

current budget

presupuesto ordinario, corriente

The projection of income and expense at anticipated levels of activity rather than in terms of ideal goals.

current cost [accounting] see current (entry) value current cost (value) accounting; current value accounting; value based accounting contabilidad según el costo (valor) de reposición

Accounting approach designed to reflect changes in the value of assets or goods themselves for changes in specific prices by the use of several methods. The methods commonly used are specific price index, replacement cost, current entry prices, current exit prices, reproduction cost and discounted present values. Current cost deals with the effects of changes in prices of resources used by the enterprise and is concerned with values to the business rather than costs.

current dollar budgeting

presupuestación en dólares corrientes

Budgeting where expenses are not adjusted for changes in the purchasing power of the dollar but represent actual prices. Cf. constant dollar budgeting.

current (entry) value; replacement value; current cost [accounting]

valor de reposición

The amount of cash (or its equivalent) that would have to be paid if the same asset - either an identical asset or an asset with equivalent productive capacity - were acquired currently, computed by applying to historical cost one or more index numbers (= adjusted historical cost) or by substituting for historical prices prevailing prices of equivalent goods and services.

current equity investment see net book value current exit value; exit value; net realizable value [UK] [accounting]

valor de realización

The estimated selling price in the ordinary course of business less costs of completion and less costs necessarily to be incurred in order to make the sale. It is often used to determine a measurement of an asset value in terms of the amount of cash or its equivalent expected to be derived from the sale of the asset, net of costs required to be incurred as a result of the sale.

current insured amount; current amount [MIGA]

cantidad asegurada corriente; cantidad corriente

The amount of the guarantee. Some countries use this amount as the basis for compensation.

current international payments

pagos internacionales corrientes

current liabilities

pasivo corriente; pasivo exigible a corto plazo

Liabilities that are to be paid out of current assets or transferred to income, usually within one year or less.

current maturities

vencimientos a menos de un año

That portion of debt falling due for repayment in the accounting year following the date of the balance sheet (i.e. within twelve months of the balance sheet date).

current prices

precios corrientes

current ratio; working capital ratio

relación corriente [América Latina]; coeficiente de solvencia [España]

Ratio of current assets to current liabilities. It is the main liquidity ratio.

custom retrofitting

modificación de productos fabricados en serie

customs duty bill

letra aduanera garantizada

Special type of credit in France granted by the state to corporations to allow them to pay indirect taxes or customs duty, with a guarantee provided by a bank or other financial institution. These bills allow the corporation to defer payment of value-added tax or customs duties. The state draws up a bill for the amount in question which the corporation agrees to pay on maturity.

customs valuation (practices)

(prácticas de) avalúo aduanero, de aduana

cutoff date [debt]

fecha límite

cutoff point (for Bank or IDA financing)

límite (para la concesión de financiamiento de la AIF o del Banco)

Point at which a country is no longer eligible for Bank or IDA financing.

cutoff rate (of return) [projects]

tasa de rentabilidad aceptable, de desistimiento; tasa límite de rentabilidad aceptable

The rate of interest (commonly the opportunity cost of capital or the accounting rate of interest, Little-Mirrlees method, or the consumption rate of interest, UNIDO method) below which capital investment projects should be rejected. It is often taken to be the opportunity cost of capital. The cutoff rate would be the minimum acceptable internal rate of return for a project or the discount rate used to calculate the net present worth, the net benefit-investment ratio or the benefit-cost ratio.

cut-over forest

bosque de segundo crecimiento, bosque talado

Secondary forest that has already been logged but regrown.

dam see diversion dam; earthfill dam; storage dam

data collection

recopilación de datos

dated information

información desactualizada day release; block release

licencia de tiempo completo

The system by which a trainee is authorized to be absent from work, usually for one or two complete days a week, with or without pay, in order to attend part-time courses of related instruction and general education constituting part of his training program.

day-to-day money see call money

days receivable

días de atraso en el pago de las cuentas por cobrar

The average number of days overdue of accounts receivable. It is used as an indicator of the efficiency of the commercial operations of a corporation, as it reflects its ability with regard to collection of bills. The Bank target is around 60 days.

dead storage (capacity)

capacidad no utilizable

deadweight (losses)

(pérdidas de) peso muerto

Loss of consumer surplus incurred by buyers and not captured by producers, which is consequent upon an initially competitive industry becoming monopolistic and therefore, ceteris paribus, charging a higher price and selling a lower level of output.

deadweight tonnage - DWT

toneladas de peso muerto

The weight in long tons that a vessel can carry when fully laden.

deadwood equities [IFC]

capital improductivo, "lastre"

Investments that either have a loss reserve, a write-off, paid less than half of the portfolio's average dividend rate the past two years, are presently valued at less than 1.2 times cost, or whose prospects for future price appreciation are estimated to be poor.

deferred rate setting - DRS

fijación diferida del interés

Method of locking in a spread over a Treasury benchmark while distributing the rate fixing over several months. Treasury securities are purchased, with the pricing benchmark being the issue at the time the borrowing was launched and the securities are sold when the borrower wants to fix the Treasury yield component of the borrowing cost. The issue spread is locked in at time of issue and the Treasury yield component of the cost is stripped out. Any decrease in interest rates after the issue date would mean the Treasury notes could be sold at a profit which would reduce the borrowing cost of the issue to a level reflecting the original issue spread and the Treasury yield at the time the Treasury notes were sold. Conversely, any increase in interest rates would mean a loss on the sale of the Treasury securities and an increase in the borrowing cost to a level reflecting the higher Treasury yield.

discounted cash flow (DCF) method

método de actualización de los flujos de fondos

A type of analysis based on discounting cash flows to the present by a given discount rate. It allows an analyst to take into account the fact that a dollar of benefit received a year from today is not as valuable as a dollar of cost incurred today, for example, because if the cost had not been incurred, the dollar could have been invested, and in a year's time at an interest rate of, say, 10%, the capital would have grown to $1.10. Because projects vary widely in the pattern of their costs and benefits over time, DCF is necessary to place them on a common present value basis for comparison.

double-weighted borrowing cost [IBRD]

costo de los empréstitos con doble ponderación

When calculating borrowings, the IBRD takes the amount of the loan, multiplies it by the interest rate, and obtains a total for the interest. All the loans and all the interest totals are added. The first sum is then divided by the second to obtain the weighted average interest. This is the single-weighted borrowing cost. Recently, the IBRD has obtained the interest total by multiplying the amount of the loan by the interest and the number of years to maturity, to take into account the fact that it has loans of varying maturities. The weighted averaged interest obtained from this calculation is called the double-weighted borrowing cost.

effectiveness of an agreement
entrada en vigor de un convenio effects method [project appraisal]

método de los efectos

A method of project evaluation originated by Charles Prou and Marc Chervel, widely used in French-speaking African countries, which involves valuing the product and its tradeable inputs at shadow prices. A comparison is made between the situation with the project and without the project.

efficiency cost of taxation; excess burden of taxation

costo de eficiencia de (los impuestos) la tributación; carga excesiva de la tributación

The difference between the resources that the government gains and the sacrifice that is made by taxpayers.

efficiency price see economic price efficiency price; efficient price; long-run marginal cost - LRMC [electricity]

costo marginal a largo plazo

The cost of meeting an increase in consumption, sustained indefinitely into the future, when needed capacity adjustments are possible.

efficiency unit
unidad de eficiencia

efficiency wage
salario de eficiencia

Wages measured in cost per unit output rather than in actual wages received or paid.

effluent charges
cargos por efluentes; descarga de efluentes Payment for direct releases into the environment.

effluent sewerage; solids-free sewerage; small-bore sewerage

sistema de alcantarillado (alcantarillado) para efluentes líquidos

A hybrid between a septic tank and a conventional sewerage system. Its distinctive feature is a solid interceptor tank located between the house sewer and the street sewer. The interceptor tank retains the solids, thereby allowing smaller sewers to be laid at flatter gradients and with fewer manholes.

18% currency [IBRD maintenance of value]
monto(s) del 18% (pagado(s) por un miembro en su moneda)

The capital paid in to the Bank by a member country in its own currency. Members have to pay in 20% of their initial shares, of which 2% is in gold and 18% in the national currency. This is the 18% currency. Though subsequent capital increases have required a lower national currency payment, this amount is still called 18% currency.

18% currency out on loan [IBRD maintenance of value]

montos del 18% en préstamo

Egyptian cotton; kidney cotton; Sea Island cotton; West Indian cotton

algodón de las Islas Occidentales; algodón de Barbados; algodón egipcio elasticity of demand

elasticidad de la demanda

The percentage change induced in one factor of demand divided by a given percentage change in the factor that caused the change. For example, if the price of a commodity is raised, purchasers tend to reduce their buying rate.

elasticity of substitution

elasticidad de sustitución

A measure of the ease with which one input can be substituted for another when responding to a change in the ratio of the prices of the s. For instance, given a production function, suppose that the ratio of the return to capital to wages declined 1%, making labor relatively more expensive than capital. If the ratio of the amount of capital input to labor input used increases more than 1%, the elasticity of substitution is elastic, which implies that it is relatively easy to substitute capital for labor.

[see also constant elasticity of substitution]

elastic money

dinero elásticoinput

The situation occurring in a monetary system in which the volume of currency in circulation can be varied to meet different needs.

environmental (advisory) panel grupo de evaluación ambiental
An advisory panel of independent, internationally-recognized, environmental specialists, formed to advise on projects involving large dams. Normally required for Bank large dam projects.

environmental assessment - EA
evaluación ambiental
An intensive examination that is required for lending operation that have diverse and significant environmental impacts.

environmental audit
auditoría ambiental
Detailed study of the environmental problems of an area or industrial plant.

environmental degradation deterioro, degradación ambiental
Deterioration in the environment. Includes pathogens in the environment, indoor air pollution, substandard housing and extensive industrialization.

environmental engineering ingeniería ambiental, del medio ambiente; ingeniería ecológica

environmental enhancement mejoramiento ambiental
Improvement to the environment. Used by the Bank to refer to improvement to the environment as an indirect effect of a project.

Area on the Earth where there is a considerable and often unique species diversity.

environmental impact assessment - EIA evaluación del impacto ambiental; evaluación de los efectos ambientales Evaluation of the effect of a project on the environment.

environmental management plan see mitigation plan environmental reconnaissance examen (ambiental) sobre el terreno

Bank mandated study, carried out by independent, recognized experts during project identification, to ensure that potential environmental effects are identified, ascertain the scope of further environmental studies and action needed, assess the availability of the borrower to undertake them and advise on the need for an environmental panel.

environmental review

estudio de los efectos ambientales

The whole process by which the Bank monitors the environmental effects of projects. It may involve fullscale environmental assessment or only limited analysis. It starts with screening at identification and continues through evaluation after the last disbursement.

equity grant

donación en capital

equity-like instrument

instrumento financiero con características patrimoniales

A loan structured in such a way that it can be converted into equity. An example is an income note that acts as equity, i.e. it bears interest only if the project generates interest. This means it has the form of equity (cf. stocks where income is generated only if the company pays a dividend). An example of the use of this type of instrument is in high-risk countries where an equity investment would be lost at once but an equity-like instrument, if dollar-denominated, would guarantee the capital and ensure income if the project produced income.

forest canopy
cubierta, dosel forestal

forest fallow
barbecho forestal

All complexes of woody vegetation derived from the clearing of natural forest for shifting agriculture. It consists of a mosaic of various reconstitution phases and includes patches of uncleared forests and agriculture fields which cannot be realistically segregated and accounted area-wise, especially from satellite imagery. Forest fallow is an intermediate class between forest and non-forest land uses. Part of the area which is not under cultivation may have the appearance of a secondary forest. Even the part currently under cultivation sometimes has the appearance of forest, due to presence of tree cover. Accurate separation between forest and forest fallow may not always be possible.

incremental capital-output ratio - ICOR

relación incremental capital-producto

Ratio of the change in capital investment (net of gross investment minus capital consumption allowances) to the change in output. If a certain industry adds $2.5 million net to its capital equipment and its yearly output increases by $1 million then its ICOR is 2.5:1.

incremental cost

costo incremental

[see also average incremental cost] incremental housing, building

construcción progresiva de viviendas

Building, usually from a core where additional features are gradually added.

incremental rate of return

tasa diferencial de rentabilidad

The discount rate which equalizes the present value of incremental costs with the incremental benefits of the project.

indefinite quantity contract

contrato por cantidades indeterminadas

Contract which provides for the provision of an indefinite quantity of specific goods or services, within stated limits and during a specified period.

independent variable; predictor

variable independiente, predictiva

indexed, index-linked bond

bono ajustable, indizado

Bond where the coupon rate or redemption value is indexed (to other currencies, gold, or fuel prices).

indicator; economic indicator; lagging indicator; leading indicator; performance indicators indifference curve

curva de indiferencia

A graphical representation of different bundles of, say, two commodities, from the consumption of which the individual derives the same amount of total utility. If we assume an individual obtains the same utility from a bundle of 5 bananas and 6 mangoes or 4 bananas and 8 mangoes or 3 bananas and 11 mangoes, we can plot a graph with bananas as the x-axis and mangoes as the y-axis. We get three points for the three different bundles. The curve we obtain by joining these points is the indifference curve, so called because the individual is indifferent about his choice as regards total utility.

indigenization

reemplazo de personal extranjero por personal nacional

indigenous NGO

ONG autóctona

indirect costs; on-costs [UK]

costos indirectos

induced-by benefit

beneficio inducido indirecto

A form of indirect benefit that accrues to suppliers of project inputs. Includes the direct and indirect value added to national income generated by the investment and recurrent expenditures of a project. Equivalent to using a shadow price for a project input for which an adjustment is made for opportunity cost in the estimates of direct and indirect value added. Sometimes estimated using specialized forms of input-output multipliers.

induced development effect; boomtown effect

efecto secundario de urbanización

The secondary growth of settlements and infrastructure, resulting from a project.

industrial and trade policy adjustment - ITPA

A lease where the asset is not wholly amortized during the obligatory period (if any) of the lease, and where the lessor does not rely for his profit on the rentals in the obligatory period. In other words, the payments received under the lease do not necessarily cover the purchase price, and the lessor expects to take the asset back and re-lease it or resell it. Operating leases are often offered by equipment manufacturers rather than finance houses.

revaluation
revaluación; revalorización

revaluation factor [currency pool]

factor de revaluación

A ratio establishing the appreciation or depreciation due to exchange rate changes in the U.S. dollar value of currencies in the pool from one date to another. It is calculated by dividing, as of any day, the total U.S. dollar value at the exchange rates of that day of the balances of currencies in the pool brought forward from the previous day, by their total U.S. dollar value at the exchange rates of the previous day.

revealed comparative advantage - RCA

ventaja comparativa manifiesta, explícita, evidente, etc.

Concept developed by Bela Balassa, it is measured by an item's share in the country's exports relative to its share in world trade. If the share of the item in the country's exports is more than the corresponding world share, then the country has a revealed comparative advantage; if less, it has a revealed comparative disadvantage.

mercado de dos niveles

An exchange rate regime which normally insulates a country from the balance of payments effects of capital flows while it maintains a stable exchange rate for current account transactions. Capital transactions are normally required to pass through a "financial" market while current transactions go through an "official" market, though other arrangements are possible. Examples are found in Belgium and the United Kingdom, though France and Italy have experimented with such systems.

unit activity (crop) budget

presupuesto por unidad de actividad

In farm investment analysis, a farm budget based on an easily segregated activity such as planting a single hectare of a crop or raising a particular group of animals. It is difficult to prepare a unit activity budget on a with and without basis; rather, it is generally prepared on an incremental basis, with all costs and all benefits included at the incremental value. For both financial analysis and economic analysis, this means that for some elements the opportunity cost must be estimated directly, often especially difficult for land and for family labor. As a result, unit activity budgets are most appropriate in project analyses where the opportunity cost of land and family labor can be taken to be zero.
